Assessment by the Nordic countries of their negotiating position in the Kennedy Round.

In submitting a common assessment of their negotiating position in the Kennedy Round the Nordic countries have based themselves upon the following considerations.

1. The Ministerial Resolutions governing the Kennedy Round envisaged that the trade negotiations should cover all kinds of products, industrial and non-industrial, including agricultural and primary products. The Governments of Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden fully subscribe to the aims and objectives of the Kennedy Round. Subject to reciprocity Denmark, Norway and Sweden initially offered an overall 50 per cent tariff reduction on all industrial items without exceptions. Taking her special economic structure into account Finland had to make a limited number of conditional exceptions.
2. Several other industrialized countries have not been in a position to make similar offers. Extensive lists of exceptions were introduced into the negotiations. In bilateral discussions between the various Nordic countries and other participants only limited adjustments have so far been obtained in the offers submitted by other countries.
3. It has been envisaged that at the end of November participants should communicate to each other their assessment of their negotiating position. The Nordic countries have made a common assessment of the contributions of other industrialized countries to the Kennedy Round in relation to their present offers. This assessment shows a considerable lack of balance due to the fact that a large part of the main export commodities of the Nordic countries have been subject to exceptions in one form or another.
4. The position of the Nordic countries is well known from bilateral consultations. In order to facilitate the continued negotiations the Nordic countries have prepared the attached lists of main products for which substantial offers are requested from the major trading partners. The Nordic countries urge their trading partners to reconsider their present offers accordingly.

5. If satisfactory improvements should not be obtained, the Nordic countries will ultimately have to withdraw a substantial part of their initial offers. A list indicating products, which might be withdrawn, is attached. Moreover, in view of the existing imbalance in concessions the Nordic countries may find it impossible to maintain offers which in relation to the European Economic Community amount to about US.$ 300 million.

6. The Nordic countries wish to make it clear that this presentation does not constitute a decision to withdraw these offers from the negotiations. The aim is to give the negotiations a new incentive and to establish a basis on which fruitful negotiations can be pursued.

7. Iron and Steel. Products, which are at present subject to separate sector discussions, have not been taken into account by the Nordic countries when making their assessment. The results of these discussions will have to be assessed and brought into the total balance of the negotiations at a later stage.

8. Agricultural products. When making the assessments underlying the Nordic list of withdrawals, the present situation within the multilateral sector negotiations aiming at international or regional agreements or arrangements for the main agricultural products has been taken into account.

The Nordic countries underline the importance of the negotiations on these products resulting in an essential contribution towards the fulfilment of the general aim of the Kennedy Round in the agricultural sector so as to create acceptable conditions of access to world markets for agricultural products in furtherance of a significant development and expansion of world trade in such products. At the present stage of the negotiations it is not possible, however, to make any assessment of the offers submitted so far or of the results which may ultimately be achieved. To the extent that improved concessions result from the negotiations, corresponding reductions will be made in the list of withdrawals.

The Nordic request list does not include products for which proposals have been submitted for the establishment of international or regional agreements or arrangements. In case satisfactory results are not achieved through multilateral negotiations the Nordic countries will present specific requests for these products.

9. Pulp and Paper. The offers of the EEC have been evaluated on the basis of specified offers circulated to participants in the trade negotiation.

10. The Nordic countries have endeavoured, to the largest extent possible, to avoid withdrawals of products of interest to developing countries. It should be recalled that the Nordic countries have made special offers on tropical products which autonomously have been or may shortly be put into effect.

11. This presentation does not prejudice the final balance of reciprocity between the Nordic countries and other participants which, according to agreed procedures, have to be dealt with at a later stage of the negotiations.

12. It should be recalled that it has been acknowledged that during the trade negotiations a problem of reciprocity could arise in the case of countries the general incidence of whose tariff is unquestionably lower than that of other participating countries.

13. Furthermore, it should be recalled that in relation to certain other participants some of the Nordic countries have a balance in their favour pending from earlier tariff negotiations.

Geneva, 29 April 1967

Norway

P.M.

Concerning Norway, the Nordic Delegation wishes to emphasize that the offers submitted on the 1st April are conditioned upon adequate concessions from the EEC listed in the Nordic request list of the same date.

Under the present state of affairs the imbalance between offers submitted by Norway and EEC is estimated at about 200 mill.$$. Notwithstanding this imbalance, Norway is willing to respond to requests made by the EEC, in submitting additional offers on a large number of items. The offers submitted including the additional offers are, however, dependent upon a satisfactory solution for important Norwegian export items, inter alia frozen fish fillets,

canned fish products,
ferrosilicon,
aluminium and magnesium.

The Norwegian offers within chapter 87 are linked with an economically satisfactory concession on frozen fish fillets from EEC.

The Government of Norway is anxious to achieve a maximum solution in the Kennedy Round. However, to the extent the EEC finds itself unable to fulfill requests, the imbalance will consequently have to be redressed.

and to the European Coal and Steel Community

P.M.

The Nordic Delegation requests the following improvements in offers from the EEC for the main agricultural commodities:

1. Live Cattle

The conclusion of an arrangement comprising the following elements:

- a) The binding for three years of the Community's orientation price at the level of 265 DM.
- b) The calculation of import levies on the basis of an agreed minimum price for exports to the Community.
- c) No application of import levies as long as the internal market price of the Community remains above the orientation price.
- d) The application of not more than half levy if the CEE market price falls to or below the orientation price but remains higher than the intervention price.
- e) For cattle destined for industrial transformation more than half levy shall in no case be applied. The imports of such cattle shall in no case be treated less favourably than imports of frozen meat.
- f) A clause of "good functioning of the agreement" which gives a reasonable assurance that traditional supplies from Denmark can be maintained. The clause could include reciprocal obligations with regard to the regularity of supplies,

2. Dairy products

a) Cheese.

For group 6, group 9, group 10 and Havarti:

- Binding for three years of the Community's threshold prices fixed for 1968-69.
- Fixation of minimum import prices which increased by an import levy of 11,5% would correspond to the threshold price. Imports from countries not respecting the minimum price should be subject to additional levies.

b) Butter.

- Binding for three years of the threshold price of the Community fixed for 1968/69.
- Differentiation of import levies.

3. Slaughtered poultry

Eggs and egg products

Pig meat pig meat preserves

Reduction of the protective effects of import levies and sluice gate prices.

4. With regard to Emmenthal cheese, attention is drawn to the article XXVIII-negotiation and to the necessity to find a solution which in no way would diminish the present level of exports from the Nordic countries.

Geneva, April 1, 1967

ORDIC DELEGATION

Questions concerning ex 03.01 B1a2 Herring.

Question No. 1:

What is the basis for ascertaining a difference between "market price" and "reference price"?

Remark:

It is essential to be informed if the intention is to fix the market price as an average of prices obtained in selected landing ports within the EEC by their own fishermen, resulting in a compensatory levy to be imposed irrespective of exporters from third countries obtaining higher prices than the reference price.

Question No. 2:

Does the reference price include freight and possible levies?

Remark:

If on the other hand the actual prices on deliveries from third countries are relevant for the determination of the market price, information is required whether the comparison of prices is made on the basis of invoice prices plus freight and possible EEC levies etc.

Question No. 3:

Is the reference price proposed based on herring in bulk and is the price to be understood as valid for all sizes of herring?

Remark:

In case the question is answered affirmatively, the proposed reference price is considered to be too high. It is assumed that the proposal only applies to herring in bulk of size I (up to 8 herrings per kilogram). If this assumption is correct, reduced prices have to be fixed for smaller sizes.

Question No. 4:

Is the additional 25 per cent to the reference price indicated in the EEC offer of the same rate as that of the surcharge paid in the Federal Republic of Germany for quality "S" compared to quality "A" in the manner the quality distinctions are applied by S.A.G. (Seefisch Absatz Gesellschaft).

Remark:

According to unofficial information an agreement has been made between the German Trawler owners and the herring processing industry to the effect that 14-15 per cent higher prices should be paid for quality "S" than for quality "A". The surcharge for deliveries from third countries of herring of quality "S" should therefore be fixed at the same level i.e. maximum 15 per cent.

Question No. 5:

Is the reference price proposed valid irrespective of the degree of processing before delivery from third countries?

Remark:

As the tariff number in question includes both round and semiprocessed herring, clarification is required whether it is the intention to apply conversion factors for different degrees of processing. If so, information on such factors is appreciated.

Question No. 6:

Is the proposed reference price of 100 $ per ton offered as a binding in GATT?

Remark:

The "Von-preis" introduced by S.A.G, which price can be compared to a reference price, has for several years been kept unchanged. However, in 1967 this price has been increased twice. Guarantee must be given against unilateral changes. Thus the reference price must be bound and the binding should also comprise any additional surcharge, adjustments of the reference price according to sizes and conversion factors.
